MARSHALL NAMED ONE OF CALGARY'S BUSINESS "LEADERS OF TOMORROW"

Each year Business in Calgary magazine works with key sponsors to honor 20 up and coming leaders in Calgary's business world. These businessmen and women are leaders in their field and innovative at what they do.

The Top 20 Business leaders were honored June 24th at a dinner and awards ceremony. Each recipient was recognized for their outstanding achievements in their fields. Corey Marshall President/CEO of Anderson Vacations managed to take a small escorted tour company run by his parents and in just 7 years built it into a multi-million dollar business with 6 independent business units and product lines, with an international distribution model. One of the major successes of 2009 was Anderson's winning bid to manage the registration and housing for WorldSkills Calgary 2009. This event saw over 30,000 room nights booked by Anderson Vacations and generated millions of dollars in revenue for Calgary.

Business leaders of Tomorrow are not only recognized for their accomplishments in business but in the community of Calgary as well. Marshall was recognized for his strong contributions to the education of youth in tourism in Calgary, as well as for his role with Anderson's official philanthropy, Tourism Cares.

Once applicants apply judges critique each applicant to find the best of the best. This year's judges were Dan Doherty from D3 Strategies Inc. and Macleod Bros., David Woodman of Meyers Norris Penny and Mike Carlin of BMO Financial. These 3 businessmen work hard to make sure that each of the winners embodies the core principles of this event.

To make the evening greater, Marshall was the lucky winner of a year lease on a Honda Hybrid, graciously donated by South Calgary Honda.

"I was absolutely honored to be recognized by Business in Calgary as a Leader for Tomorrow. As the only Tourism and Hospitality industry recipient, it brought great pride to accept the award in our industry (one of the most dynamic in the world), with my colleagues and family surrounding me. It is the staff at Anderson, my family at home, and the passion of those around me that make everything we do possible." said Corey Marshall, President/CEO of Anderson Vacations.
